

Feather Frame – July News

A modified shadowbox treatment was needed for this unique frame job. My customer's son got his first wild turkey and saved some of the feathers. He told his son he would make pens out of them for him, but surprised him by including them in a frame with this photo instead. The glass had to be lifted slightly off of the mat to make room for the feathers. I used a double layer of a clear plastic strip called framespace that adheres to the glass and hides under the lip of the frame. This method is very attractive and is much less costly than a traditional shadowbox. It looks great, Jeff!! Thank you!

“Have frames, will travel” is my slogan and it means that I will visit you for a free framing consultation and free delivery when your frame work is done. I am happy to come to your house, your office, or another location of your choosing. It is very helpful to select framing materials in the area where the picture will be hanging since it is easy to hold samples up for comparison. You can trust me with your pictures because I have been framing for over 40 years.
